Well Done, Faithful Servant—

Docasotoem will be liquidated!
No, this is not some innocent Czech victim of a Nazi purge. It is a war agency—the Division of Central Administrative Services of the Office of Emergency Management—which is to be abolished since its service to other war agencies is no longer needed.

Docasotoem, pax vobiscum!

Sorrow Alone Is Not Repentance—

A popular conception of repentance is the feeling that mere regret for commission of a sin washes up the whole thing.

Visible display of remorse is a device some use to delude friends and often deceive themselves. This emotional expression is at first genuine and full of personal contrition. More often than not the impulse of repentance is not so much sorrow for some wrong done, but fear of the consequences.

Real repentance embraces admission of wrong, sorrow for it, and immediate amendment of one's way of life. Conscience, if given an invitation, will become a wholesome companion in determining the way.

Natural Catastrophe Long Overdue—

Among the innocent victims of modern warfare are birds dying by thousands as a result of their feathers being fouled by oil set afloat from torpedoed ships and submarines; beasts destroyed in forests set afire by cannon fire and incendiaries; domesticated animals slaughtered in the fields along the paths of marching armies. All of which is incidental to the wholesale carnage taking human lives. The world is certainly ripe for some natural catastrophe—not man-made—that will tend to restore the vanishing fear of God in the hearts of men.

Pointing The Way—

Just at the time the point system is relaxed on edibles, the army adopts the point system for releasing soldiers. Must be nature's inexorable application of the laws of compensation.

Vote Potential Has Slipped—

Whether the nation goes Democratic or Republican in the November election, if the same percentage of citizens vote this year as in 1940 the actual vote will be more than 30,000,000 below the potential.

About 7,860,000 citizens of voting age are in the armed forces and estimates indicate that not more than 1,000,000 of these will cast ballots this year. Family shifts because of war jobs will affect the voting potential of 15,000,000 people, many of whom will not take advantage of absentee voting privileges.

Also there was apathy in the primary which might be an indicator of continued disinterest in the regular election among the regular voters at home.

So, the job of getting out the vote will be a sizeable task. Opinions of those groups that work hardest at getting out the vote are going to influence those they contact.

Nazi Propaganda At Work Again—

Allied gains on the European front, and in the Pacific, have created an emotional reaction among the people. Victory Day is almost here. All sorts of plans for the celebration are being made as though V-Day was almost within reach.

Mothers and sweethearts have been stirred to discuss their boys' possible return home from the war fronts soon—maybe in three months, surely not later than six months.

Floating about are all sorts of rumors about the methods of soldier release, changing draft rules, easing of war restrictions, etc.

And now along come those typical whisperings about Germany putting out peace feelers. These are denied, then reasserted. Another report comes of German capitulation.

What is the effect? Well, Americans are having their minds conditioned for peace. So desirable is peace that when it does not come by October then reaction will set in, reaction so terrific that a German proposal for an armistice and not unconditional surrender might be temptingly considered.

This was the old German propaganda line in the last war. We don't see any Nazi agents running around loose in this country spreading rumors. Certainly not. But the propaganda line works mysteriously and the Germans are past masters at salvaging some juicy morsels from the fires of defeat.

So let's not become too hopeful about the early end of this war. If it comes—all to the good. If it does not—then the American public will not have weakened a total victory program for which the boys are struggling.

Don't be a sucker for the German propaganda line.

Merchants Tax Will Be Discussed—

Two Sundays ago in this column, there were outlined objections to a proposed city ordinance changing the method of applying the merchants' license tax. The purpose of the comment was to stimulate added interest in and discussion of this piece of legislation before it was finally passed; iron out the bugs before, not afterward. A suggestion was made that "city fathers and merchants should get together for an open and wholesome forum discussion of the proposed ordinance before it is put to a vote."

Last Monday night's council meeting a motion was passed for a meeting of the ordinance committee of council with representatives of the retail merchants group wherein ideas for changes may be considered, the council committee then making a report to the entire council.

Some contend that the ordinance in its present form either should be passed or rejected. Technically this may be the right procedure since the ordinance has been up for two readings. But if there must be this finality then the measure in its present form should be defeated.

Not that it matters a great deal, but my first comments were interpreted by some as approving the new license ordinance. That can be cleared up quickly by a single positive statement: Kill the ordinance in its present form; or, if this is legal, amend it so that objectionable and inequitable features may be eliminated.

What form the final measure will take depends upon a thorough discussion between the city councilmen and merchants. Certainly the latter group have a right to be heard either in committee or open council meeting. Neither side should take a dictatorial attitude. This will only stir up bad blood. Republicans should be the last to try to mimic New Deal procedures.

An Open Forum Discussion—

Merchants met Friday night in Bothwell hotel to discuss the license tax. Those present agreed they had no objections to paying a higher tax if the city had to have more money for its operations. But an equitable arrangement of application of the tax needs to be worked out.

Discussion revealed that some sort of a bracket system might be the solution, and further discussion revealed that the city already had a bracket system of sorts that may be modified to ease the tax on the small merchants and raise it on the larger operator.

The merchants agreed that a committee should be named from their group to analyze the problem, suggest a program, submit it to the merchants for approval, and then to council.

In the meantime it is the opinion that final action on the present ordinance should be held in abeyance.

The Soldier Housing Problem—

The soldier housing problem is still with us. A recent arrival at the Sedalia Air Base who ran the housing gauntlet in Sedalia and Warrensburg was moved to write the following article:

Keeping a Soldier From His Loved Ones

It is strange to imagine, but there are some people in these United States who are willfully preventing a soldier from spending his last few days before going overseas with his loved ones.

Now you will look at yourself and say, "Well, I wouldn't do such a thing in a million years," and will turn to a different article. But don't. You may be the one to whom this story is addressed.

A soldier arrives at a base knowing that he is close to going overseas. He can't reveal this fact and ask for sympathy, because he would be violating security regulations. He begins to look for a room where his wife can live during the short time they have left together.

All available rooms are taken. The soldier, desperate to see his wife, sends for her anyway. Though often she is expecting a baby, she comes, just to spend these last few days with him.

On this same night, your own son may be welcomed in that soldier's far-away home. Everyone who has a son in the service has received letters about the fine people he has met and the homes at which he has stayed.

Now you start to rationalize. (And if you do, it means you have a guilty conscience.) "Well, we have a room that we aren't using. But to rent it would mean people going through the center of the house every time they came in. We'd have another family with us, disrupting our lives."

But this desperate soldier is going overseas to defend your lives. If it weren't for him, you wouldn't have a life to be disrupted. And if you did have one, the Germans and Japs would disrupt it more than the soldier and his wife. Can you read this with a clear conscience? Search your heart carefully.

The Chamber of Commerce has offered itself as a clearing house for the service of providing living space for our soldiers. Clear through your conscience at the same time.

So They Say

Why the boys still whistle at us I can't imagine. With all this stuff hanging around us, I'm surprised they knew we were feminine. —WAC Sgt. Sirkka Tuomi, arriving in France.

The enemy is swift to take advantage of every opportunity, and I do not doubt that Germany is revamping her air force for a desperate effort. She may develop new devices, so that we must not relax for one moment. —Assistant Secretary of War for Air Robert A. Lovett.

Any Allied airman who falls or bails out over Japan will be executed. This is the order of the day.—Jap broadcast.

The Allies must be ready with their relief plans if millions are to be saved from starvation, destitution, and pestilence. — Archbishop of York.

There is unfortunately an unconscious decline in interest on the part of a surprising number of citizens not only in this war and the awfulness of the issues, but in planning for the future as well.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Children are not expendable, however pressing present manpower needs of the nation are.—U. S. Children's Bureau welfare conference report.

Small business is bold and daring. The very large business tends to become conservative and to follow a definite line of procedure. If you want a progressive, free community, keep your little and independent business alive. —Maury Maverick, WPB vice chairman.

We have given the enemy forces a tremendous pounding and we know from prisoners what great losses they have suffered. We have enlarged and extended our lodgement area and in that area we are very firm and secure.—General Montgomery, invasion commander.

While we can talk today in terms of formidably bad luck, there is absolutely no necessity to prophesy a continuation along the same lines provided that German leadership capitalizes on its experience and does not repeat its previous mistakes.—Lt.-Gen. Kurt Dittmar, Nazi radio commentator.

Merry-go-round

. . . by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—The president really let loose some fireworks at last week's cabinet meeting shortly after Charles E. Wilson resigned as WPB executive vice-chairman after publicly blasting WPB chief Donald Nelson. The cabinet members, who usually meet with a smiling, wise-cracking president, picked up their ears at his vigorous denunciation of businessmen.

"Here we are at the most important phase of the war," said Roosevelt icily, "and these businessmen act like a bunch of children. They pick up their baseball bats and go home."

The president went on to say that those who are schooled in government may have their differences, but know how to iron them out and get along together in the end. After delivering quite a lecture on name-calling and the inability of businessmen to get along together, he turned to Secretary of State Hull and said:

"It takes Democrats like you and me to run this country, doesn't it, Cordell?"

Mrs. Luce's Narrow Squeak
Democratic and Republican congressmen who hotly debated how much money FDR spent for warships on his trip to Pearl Harbor, and how much Mrs. Roosevelt spent going to New Zealand, did not know that one of their own number had a narrow squeak from being in the same category.

She is beautiful Mrs. Clare Luce, GOP congresswoman from Connecticut, who contemplated an airplane trip to the South Pacific, Australia and China. It was fatherly Democrat Andrew Jackson May of Kentucky who saved her.

What happened was that, after Alabama's Joe Starnes had ridden all over the U.S.A. in military planes as a member of the appropriations military subcommittee, it was finally arranged that such junkies be approved first by a subcommittee. Congressman May, chairman of the military affairs committee, appointed this subcommittee, keeps a tight rein over it. If a congressman wants to get a special army plane, he comes to May.

So when Mrs. Luce broached the idea of getting a special army plane to take her to the South Pacific, China and other war theatres, kindly Congressman May replied:

"I thought you Republicans were against all that. So much hell has been raised about Eleanor going to the South Pacific, I didn't think you'd want to do anything like that. How are you going to crack down on Eleanor if you do?"

Mrs. Luce grinned appreciatively and walked away. Then she turned and waved at Andrew Jackson May. Maybe it dawned that he had done her a great favor.

NOTE: Actually, Mrs. Roosevelt travelled to New Zealand, not in a special plane, but occupying one seat in a regular transport plane, along with many other passengers. These planes operate to New Zealand every day or oftener. Various members of the cabinet, the secretary of war, secretary of the navy, secretary of the treasury, and Chairman of the Maritime Commission Land do have special planes, however, and for a while these planes remained idle most of the time. Admiral Ben Moreell recently took a trip to Chicago with his special plane partly empty.

Split Over India
Nobody will admit it publicly but, inside the Roosevelt Administration, somewhat the same split is taking place regarding India as occurred regarding the question of heading off war with Japan before Pearl Harbor.

Long before Pearl Harbor, a group of young men in the State Department urged and implored Secretary of State Hull to cut off exports of oil and scrap iron to Japan. They were supported by Secretaries Ickes, Morgenthau, Stimson and the late Secretary of the Navy Knox.

Today there is a revolt among some of the same type of men regarding the fact that the Allied campaign in Burma has bogged down due to the do-nothing attitude of the British in India. They feel that Ambassador Phillips should have been supported in his forthright report on India to the president and that the State Department made a serious mistake in bowing to the British by withdrawing him from London. Also they feel that India may be a breeder of wars in years to come if its problems are not ironed out.

One of the young State Department officials who led the revolt against U. S. appeasement of Japan before Pearl Harbor was John P. Davies, Jr., an expert on Far Eastern affairs. He is now State Department representative attached to General Stilwell, and today he is leading the same kind of a fight regarding British lethargy in India.

When the Allied campaign in Burma first began to bog down, General Stilwell sent Davies from Burma to India to make a survey of what was holding things up. Davies' report is one of the most revealing documents on file in the State Department, and if a Senate committee probing the year's delay in Burma ever reads it, it will get an earful. Only trouble is that Davies' report was merely filed. Nothing was done about it.

British Motives

Davies hinted that the British did not want to go back to Burma until they could take it by themselves. To have Burma retaken through the initiative of the United States and China, he indicated, would not help British politics and prestige.

He also reported that the British did not want conflicting elements in India to get together to form a united country. As long as the Mohammedans and Hindus are at swords' points, the British have an excuse to withhold independence. Once the two groups get together, British excuses will evaporate.

"It's the old divide and rule game," reported Davies.
The group inside the U. S. government which feels keenly about this entire subject decided to say little until the war in Europe was about over. But now they feel the time has about come to concentrate our entire war energies on Asia.

They want to get the Asiatic war over in a hurry, and they point to the fact that certain secret objectives which the British one year ago promised to take, are now months behind schedule. Meanwhile, U. S. operations in the Central Pacific are about six months ahead of schedule.

Finally, this group believes that the all-important goal of winning the peace after the war can only

ITALY SURRENDERS

XXV

STILL the Badoglio government held its silence. On Aug. 1 Allied planes bombed the docks at Naples and other points. On the 8th Milan, Turin and Genoa were bombed from the air and then, as the Axis was frantically evacuating troops by the Straits of Messina, Rome was bombed.

Suddenly, the bombing raids quieted somewhat and it was apparent that something was about to happen. What was actually happening was revealed later. In two neutral countries Italian diplomats had approached British diplomats and informed them of the Italian desire to make peace; also of Italy's complete inability to cope with the Germans still within her borders. Of these moves the Germans were held completely in the dark.

General Eisenhower went to Lisbon during this period and attended a meeting presided over by Sir Ronald H. Campbell and the American charge d'affaires. The representatives of the Badoglio government parleyed. They wanted conciliatory terms. There was but one answer from General Eisenhower and the Allied delegates: "Unconditional surrender!"

The Italian representative, a general, left to go back to Rome for consultation. Because of the secrecy of his mission it took several days to reach the Eternal City. The Italian government sent back a second general; and to prove their good faith, the one-armed British general, Carton De Taborie, who had been an Italian prisoner since early in the war, went with him.

The second Italian general went on to Eisenhower's African headquarters while the first returned to Lisbon with the reply that the Italian government could not act as a free agent because of its ties with Germany; therefore the armistice could not be announced prior to Allied landings on the Italian mainland.

The Allied representatives ignored the protestations and demanded a definite yes or no within 24 hours. The answer came to Eisenhower's headquarters by a secret communications' route the next day, revealing that the Italians had accepted the Allied terms and that a representative would return to sign the armistice.

In the presence of General Eisenhower and Gen. Sir Harold L. G. Alexander, the armistice was signed on Sept. 3 by Gen. Bedell Smith, representing Eisenhower, and General Castellano, representing Marshal Badoglio. With most of Italy in German hands, General Eisenhower decided to coincide the announcement of the armistice with the landings of his Allied troops at Naples on Sept. 3.

The radio again was made an instrument of war and peace when its voice proclaimed the glad tidings to the Italian people waiting anxiously in their homes.

"This is Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief of the Allied forces. The Italian government has surrendered its armed forces unconditionally. As Allied commander-in-chief I have granted a military armistice, the terms of which have been approved by the governments of the United Nations. Thus I am acting in the interests of the United Nations. . . ."

The message of Badoglio followed: "The Italian government, recognizing the impossibility of continuing the struggle against the overwhelming power of the enemy, with the object of avoiding further and more grievous harm to the nation, requested an armistice from General Eisenhower. This request has been granted. The Italian forces will, therefore, cease all acts of hostility against the Anglo-American forces wherever they may be met. They will, however, oppose attacks from any other quarter."

REPERCUSSIONS of the armistice occurred swiftly. The Italian fleet dashed out to sea and surrendered to the Allies. Italy declared war on Germany.

Eisenhower had won another epoch-making victory. Through a masterly combination of military strategy and most skillful diplomacy he had forced Italy out of the Axis—the partner of Nazism was now its enemy.

Hitler, in desperation, contrived a cunning coup to rescue his friend Mussolini, who was held by Badoglio under guard in prison. In a daring night raid the Italian guards were caught unaware. The emaciated and half-mad Mussolini was dragged from imprisonment by Axis agents, carried to a waiting airplane, taken to Germany, and delivered to Hitler.

In Italy the 71-year-old Marshal Badoglio was made premier by the king. Upon his new assumption of power he said, "The war continues. Italy, hard hit in her invaded provinces and in her destroyed cities, loyally keeps her given word (to the Allies) as the jealous custodians of her military traditions."

The trembling, almost senile voice of the fallen Mussolini was now heard over the radio appealing to the Italians to turn against the Allies under Eisenhower. His bombast and bluster were gone; it faded away into almost incoherent mumbling—the end of a ruthless dictator.

Hitler, staggering under the collapse of Italy and the overpowering might of the Russians, who were driving steadily on toward their invasion of Germany, was besieged on two sides. He must fight off the Russian juggernaut moving upon him from the east; he must fight Eisenhower's victorious forces moving upon him from the south.

Eisenhower was poised for the next blow.

In a young city the size of Sedalia, there must be two sewing machines that are not in use. There must be two sewing machines that have been put in an attic or a closet and forgotten. The Red Cross sewing machine division wishes to borrow those two neglected machines. We need them for a definite purpose: the making of Kit Bags. The naval and military authorities passed out a few such bags at the port of embarkation, and then observed the reaction of the servicemen who received them. The reaction was such that now they are part of the standard equipment for American boys going overseas. These kit bags are being made in our sewing room under the direction of Mrs. William Steele. The need for two more sewing machines is an urgent need. Please call 618 if you have a sewing machine that you will be able to lend to the American Red Cross. We will arrange for transportation.

A war doesn't end with the last gun that's fired. For the wounded the war goes on many years after the peace is signed. The medical and nursing emergency, therefore, will continue long after cessation of hostilities. Doctors and nurses now engaged in binding wounds on battle fields will spend long months rehabilitating the injured and maimed.

Here in Sedalia, as in communities throughout the nation, we shall be forced to continue the self reliance learned during the war. Every home must have a front line defense against the growth or spread of disease. The Red Cross chapter is offering every housewife in Sedalia this opportunity to learn Home Nursing.

Chop Sleeper Out Of Bed Of Tar

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Sept. 9.—(AP)—While a nurse administered sedatives, police worked for 40 minutes Friday to chip and cut Ignatz C. Bonikonis' free from a pile of tar on which he had fallen asleep.

Police Lieut. Arthur Schultz said Bonikonis, a 58-year-old Brooklyn, N. Y. railroad worker, had gone to sleep early that day on the ground in a vacant lot where an asphalt plant formerly was located.

This morning, Schultz said, two passersby heard cries for help and found Bonikonis sunk in a 10-inch pile of tar with only his right arm free. Unable to get him loose, they called police who had to cut off Bonikonis' clothing before they could free him.

Police said the tar, softened by warm weather, apparently had been softened further by the heat of Bonikonis' body as he slept, entrapping him.

Payment On Feed Subsidy

The Triple-A county committee is now making payments of Dairy Feed subsidy on butterfat and whole milk sold by Pettis county producers during the months of July and August. The rate of payment for these two months is 35 cents per hundredweight on whole milk and 6 cents per pound on butterfat sold, states C. E. Ferguson, chairman Pettis county Triple-

The Dairy feed payments are made in two-month periods and application for the payment may be made during the two months following the period. During the past two months of July and August, the Pettis county committee has received 1,261 applications from producers and issued sight drafts on the Commodity Credit Corporation in the amount of $21,- 149.00 as subsidy payment on whole milk and butterfat sold during the months of May and June.

Mr. Ferguson stated that the committee believes there are still quite a number of producers of dairy products in Pettis county who have not made application for the Dairy Feed subsidy payment. This payment is due every producer who sells his dairy products as whole milk, butterfat or butter. Even though no payment of less than $1.00 can be made to cover one period, it is possible to accept evidence for several combined periods which would warrant the issuance of a sight draft for $1.00 or more.

The rates of payment on dairy products which will be sold during the months of September and October are 10 cents per pound of butter fat and 60 cents per hun-dredweight of whole milk.

VOICE RESTORED

A lady's voice left her completely last January. Local doctors failed to help her and she went to the city to a large hospital clinic, her case was diagnosed as tumor of the throat and operation was advised.

Dr. Roy M. Keller

She then went to a throat specialist who also said tumor and advised operation. Wanting to be sure she went to a third clinic and they said she had no tumor and her trouble was due to a nervous condition but could do nothing for her.

She came to my office and wanted to know what chiropractic could do. If it were tumor, we probably could not help; if from nervous cause or congestion, I thought we could help but the conflicting diagnosis made it uncertain. Not being equipped for laryngoscopic examination I could not be certain which diagnosis was right. The patient wanted to try chiropractic anyway and within six days she was talking normally.

The trouble must have been congestive because after spinal adjustment according to X-Ray pictures, tenacious mucous started coming up. Chiropractors correct many abnormalities that no one knows definitely what is wrong but restoration of normal nerve supply enables nature to again restore normal condition.

If you have such an obscure condition perhaps chiropractic can restore health for you.

New Officers Elected By Garden Clubs

Circle No. 1 of the Sedalia Garden club met at the home of Mrs. E. H. Hildebrandt, 1007 West Sixth street, with Mrs. Edwin Heffernan and Mrs. Harvey Keens as assisting hostesses.

A 1 o'clock dessert luncheon was served to twenty-four members and three guests.

An inspection trip was made through Mrs. Hildebrandt's garden and many compliments were received by her on her beautiful flowers.

Flowers were used abundantly in vases about the home.

Mrs. Frank Leach, circle chairman, presided over a full and interesting program as this was the first meeting since June.

After the business meeting Mrs. Keens introduced Hillard Brewster, landscape architect for the state highway department, who spoke on "How to Care for Fall Shrubs." Mrs. Keens also introduced Mrs. Gilbert Jones, member of Circle No. 3 who gave legends of trees and flowers. Many interesting stories of flowers and shrubs prove that the colors and texture of common flowers from the prehistoric days remain unchanged except for improvement through cultivation.

This was the first meeting of the new year and all of the present officers were re-elected unanimously.

Many civic questions were discussed, for although strictly speaking the organization is a garden club, it is interested in all projects of the community.

The September meeting of Circle Two of the Sedalia Garden club was held Friday morning, September 8th, at 10:00 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Frank W. Hayes, Tenth street and State Fair boulevard, with Mrs. H. C. Johnson, Mrs. J. H. McQuiddy and Mrs. J. U. Morris, assistant hostesses.

The meeting was held in the outdoor living room, a glowing fire in the outdoor oven adding to spirit of friendliness of the spacious setting.

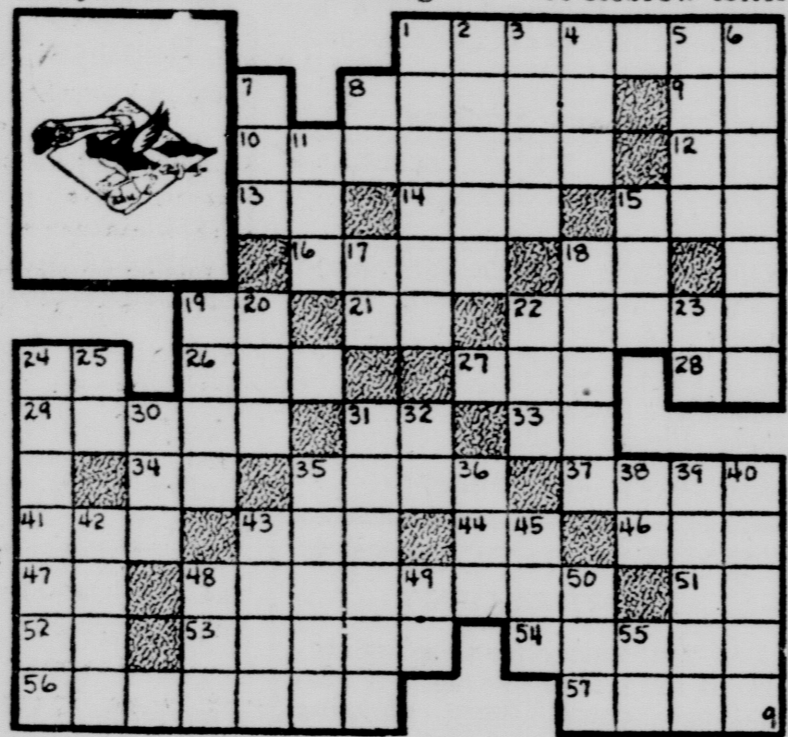

Mrs. A. W. Johns, chairman, presided over the business meeting. Minutes of the July meeting were read by the secretary, and twenty-two members answered roll call.

Mrs. Johns announced that the annual business meeting of the Sedalia Garden club would be held at the court house, September 15th, at 2:00 p. m., also the regional meeting would be held October 13th, at the court house at 10:00 a. m. A noon luncheon will be held at the Bothwell hotel, to be enjoyed by all members of the regional meeting, including all members of the Sedalia Garden club.

Mrs. Johns appointed Mrs. H. C. Johnson, Mrs. W. E. Scotten and Mrs. A. A. Ferguson to prepare a resolution in regard to the loss of Mrs. Landon Welch, a charter member of Circle Two, dearly beloved by all the circle.

Mrs. A. A. Ferguson spoke of the Baby Bond Drive, this drive to continue during the month of September.

A motion was made by Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, seconded by Mrs. L. S. Geiger that the amendments to the constitution of Circle Two be amended to conform to the constitution of the Sedalia Garden club. This motion carried unanimously.

The nominating committee composed of Mrs. Nolan Bricken, chairman, Mrs. L. V. Estes, Mrs.

A. A. Studebaker and Mrs. J. H. McQuiddy presented the following officers for Circle Two of the Sedalia Garden club for the year 1944-45, year beginning October 1st:

Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, chairman; Mrs. L. V. Estes, first vice chairman; Mrs. J. W. Boger, second vice chairman; Miss Christine Landmann, secretary; and Mrs. Nolan Bricken, treasurer.

A motion was made by Mrs. Henry C. Salveter, seconded by Mrs. Dimmitt Hoffman, that the above named be elected by acclamation.

Following the business meeting Mrs. Johns turned the meeting over to Mrs. Frank W. Hayes, who introduced the guest speaker, Mr. George T. Curnutt, who spoke on the subject, "Seed Conservation." Mr. Curnutt presented this topic in a most interesting manner, as well as most informative. At the conclusion of his talk he answered questions of vital interest to all garden club members.

At 12:30 a delicious luncheon was enjoyed, this being the annual picnic of the circle. Everyone present expressed to the hostesses their appreciation of having the picnic in such pleasant surroundings, a treat to be long remembered.

Following a delightful hour of informal sociability, the circle was adjourned to October, at which time the meeting to be held with Mrs. L. J. Harned, 1324 South Carr avenue.

Circle 3 of the Sedalia Garden club met Friday at the home of Mrs. G. W. Dabner, Route 2, with Mrs. G. A. Potter assisting hostess. Flowers were used in profusion about the house with zinnias predominating.

The business meeting was presided over by the newly elected chairman, Mrs. L. H. Hodges, in the absence of Mrs. T. E. Donaldson.

Mrs. H. U. Campbell acted as program chairman for Mrs. M. H. Carl, who was also absent. Mrs. Campbell spoke on "Mistakes in Your Garden," and Mrs. H. L. Netherton read a paper on "Conserving Seed." A round table discussion of both subjects followed.

In the flower display Mrs. Dabner won first place with a dining table centerpiece of cosmos and phycotegia in shades of orchid.

Mrs. Carl Almqvist was second with a vase of crepe myrtle and coral vine, Mrs. Potter third with zinnias. Honorable mention went to Mrs. Almqvist for dahlias and to Mrs. Peter Hoffman for a bowl of ageratum.

Refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned.

Garden Circle No. 4 met at the home of Mrs. R. R. Ramlow, 1301 West Fourth street, Friday for a dessert luncheon with Mrs. Robert Mullen and Mrs. T. F. Segers as assisting hostesses.

A beautiful centerpiece of Fantasy zinnias, blue ageratum and yellow candles adorned the dining table.

Mrs. J. C. Saunders, chairman, called the meeting to order and Mrs. C. J. Griffey read the minutes. Seventeen members answered roll call.

Mrs. Saunders announced a meeting to be held at the court house on September 15 at 2:00 o'clock of the garden circles and also the regional meeting which will be held at the court house on October 13.

Mrs. M. P. Shy, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following names for officers for the coming year: Mrs. J. C. Saunders, chairman; Mrs. R. T. Phelan, first vice chairman; Mrs. George Lively, second vice chairman; Mrs. William Clifford, secretary and Mrs. J. C. Smallwood, treasurer. All were unanimously elected.

Mrs. Ida Harriman, program chairman, presented Mrs. H. C. Sammons, who read a poem and article, "September Day By Day Gardening," "How to Conserve Seed," and "Chemurgic Inventions of Plastic," which was followed by a discussion.

Many pretty floral displays were used throughout the home and awards went to Mrs. H. C. Sammons, first on dahlias and gladioli; Mrs. R. C. Smallwood, second on dahlias and second on rose specimen; Mrs. R. L. Weinrich, first on rosebuds; Mrs. Ida Harriman, mixed bouquet of roses and tuberoses and second on yellow Fantasy zinnias; Mrs. C. J. Griffey, second on mixed bouquet; Mrs. W. J. Brill, first on petunias and marigolds; Mrs. C. F. Hert, first on zinnias and Mrs. R. R. Ramlow, third on mixed bouquets.

Special guest was Mrs. Will Johnson.

Circle No. 5, of the Sedalia Garden club, met Friday at the home of Mrs. D. C. Davis, 422 South Quincy avenue, with Mrs. M. L. Edwards, as assisting hostess.

A dessert luncheon was served to seventeen members and one guest.

This new home of Mrs. Davis was decorated with vases of roses and bowls of zinnias and marigold, grown in her own garden.

Mrs. Pearl Roberts of Boonville was the guest of Mrs. L. P. Howard.

Mrs. L. P. Howard, chairman, presided over the business meeting and Mrs. Norton Heffernan, program chairman, presented Phillip Pfeiffer, as the guest speaker, who spoke on "Conservation of Seeds," and gave valuable information on planting and caring for plants and trees.

Dewey In Favor Of Peace Body

Makes It Clear He Is For The Close Cooperation Of Big Powers

By GARDNER BRIDGE
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 9 — (P) — Declaring that creation of a permanent world peace security organization empowered to use force if necessary, must be the united, non-partisan work "of many minds," Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said Friday night:

"No one man or three or four men can shape it. Some 60 nations, great and small, must help shape it, believe in it, join it, make it work."

This oblique allusion to the Teheran and Cairo conferences among President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, Premier Stalin and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was set forth in a speech prepared by the Gop presidential nominee for the National Federation of Women's Republican clubs.

Following up last night's Philadelphia promise to discuss foreign policy, Dewey devoted virtually all of this, his second major campaign address on a 6,700 mile cross country tour, to that theme.

Dewey made it clear at the outset that he favors continued close cooperation among the big four powers, the United States, Britain, Russia and China to disarm Germany and Japan in the immediate postwar period. But he insisted that such war victims as Poland, France, the low countries and Norway must have "full partnership" in maintaining permanent peace.

For Post-War Security

Arriving late in the day after a rear platform, handshaking jump from Philadelphia, the nominee told a nationwide radio audience that he agreed in general with the American plan for postwar security as presented at the Dumbarton Oaks conference in Washington.

But, in obvious reference to the secrecy surrounding these sessions, he said:

"I believe that the organization of peace is a subject which should be talked about earnestly, widely and publicly.

"We cannot meet the problems of peace on any hush-hush, pussy-foot basis. The steps by which this great goal is to be approached cannot be secret. They must not be devious or obscure.

"On the contrary, they must be methods the American people will believe in. They must involve procedures and commitments that the American people will not merely accept for today, but will wholeheartedly support today, tomorrow and fifty years from today."
